MESSAGE FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Danya Rosen

Dear Chicago Run Family,

It's been a privilege serving as the new Chicago Run Executive Director over the last year and I look forward to all that remains ahead. I'm grateful for the support from each and every one of you, and I'm excited to share more about our impact in the pages that follow.

Last year, Chicago Run empowered over 18,000 young people – from 36 distinct communities – with our innovative and inclusive running and fitness programs. Our school-day programs provide high-quality physical activity breaks that enhance classroom engagement and enable youth to better regulate stress. Our after-school and community-based programming builds the social and emotional well-being of our participants while developing critical skills.

Simply put, we believe that running is a catalyst to transform lives.

Last year, Chicago Run developed and maintained partnerships with community-based organizations and evaluation experts to better understand and meet the needs of our communities while deepening our impact. Our programs continue to expand both inside and outside the classroom to engage more young people and their families.

I invite you to look through our annual report, which highlights some of the meaningful work that our young people, coaches, and families have embarked upon to create healthier, more active communities.

Whether you have been with us since the beginning or just recently joined the Chicago Run family, we thank you for your commitment to building a healthier, more equitable Chicago. We look forward to embarking upon our next stage of impact in partnership with you.

All my best,

Danya Rosen

"Not only do the kids stay fit but they grow bonds with each other and are good friends. For some of my kids this is the only place they feel they fit in and that to me is awesome."

SUMMER / COMMUNITY PROGRAMS & BEYOND

We continue to expand our programs to meet the needs of Chicago communities.

In the summer of 2018, Chicago Run's Summer Strides program served inter-generational families at Oakley Square Apartments, campers at Christopher House Uptown Community Center, and middle and high school age youth in the Little Village neighborhood. Summer Strides participants had the opportunity for weekly excursions to local forest preserves, a healthy cooking demonstration by MasterChef finalist Cate Meade, and interaction with peers from Mexico City, visiting with the World Chicago summer program.

During the summer, Chicago Run also employed program alumni to serve as Junior Coaches to help facilitate practices for their younger peers. These young adults attended trainings and had opportunities to build leadership, mentoring, and coaching skills that will aid in their success through high school and beyond.

Following the success of the pilot season in spring of 2018, Chicago Run continued programming at the Cook County Juvenile Temporary Detention Center with a total of 85 mixed-gender participants between the ages of 12-17. Each season, participants trained for a 3K race hosted inside the facility. This is the only mixed-gender program at the facility that brings residents from all living units together. Typically, incarcerated youth do not get adequate sleep and experience high stress levels. Chicago Run participants reported that this program improved their sleep and decreased their stress on practice days.

Chicago Run also brought trauma-informed programming to 20 participants at Lawrence Hall, an agency that serves abused and neglected youth throughout the Chicago metropolitan area.

I became a coach because... "I wanted to be able to encourage participants to cross the finish line and show younger participants that they can do anything they put their mind to. I love being a coach because it gives me the opportunity to be a leader and have more responsibility, and also encourage others to reach their goals."

MEASURING IMPACT

Creating and implementing new evaluation plans will enable Chicago Run to better measure and drive impact.

Chicago Run continues to invest in evaluation efforts and utilizes partnerships with:

- ✓ Mind and Movement Partners, a leader in physical literacy
- ✓ Up2Us Sports, a nationwide leader in coach training
- ✓ Temple University Sport Industry Research Center
- ✓ HelloInsight, standardized national Sports Based Youth Development survey used to evaluate Social Emotional Learning capacities developed through sport

In an effort to continue building a more robust evidence base, Chicago Run's evaluation team has expanded and is establishing new partnerships with external evaluators. Chicago Run also held focus groups with key stakeholders to help chart future strategic expansion and growth.
